Post Hammamet JANS roadmap for 2012, May 2012

Background

In follow up to the JANS consultation in Hammamet, the IHP+ ET asked the Core Team to provide a JANS roadmap for 2012 that would take forward the meeting's conclusions, and signal key tasks, responsibilities and timing. The draft roadmap was commented upon by the Executive Team. This amended road map reflects that feedback. To maintain momentum, work on different aspects of the Roadmap is already underway. Executive Team members continue to be asked for inputs. Progress will be reviewed regularly at Executive Team meetings.

The following have been taken into account in developing the roadmap:

- Country needs and activities as the prime focus.
- Balance between efficient use of people's time and sufficient inclusiveness.
- It is helpful to distinguish some of the more technical issues for countries to consider around doing One JANS which also takes a more in depth look at programmatic priorities, from issues related to different stakeholders' funding decisions.
- Inclusiveness in One JANS process will be best managed by encouraging engagement of key stakeholders at country level.

The proposed 2012 road map is not for the Core Team alone. It proposes different actions / responsibilities from all the different actors involved in the Hammamet meeting and on the ET.

The activities are grouped under 4 lines of work from now to December: actions related to

- Work with 3-4 countries to do a sector JANS which also takes a more in depth look at selected priority areas
- Better address different stakeholders' needs
- Anticipate increased demand for JANS: early warning, advance preparation to expand support capacity
- Improve communication and guidance

The attached spreadsheet spells these out in more detail.

Possible countries for One JANS

The IHP+ monthly matrix shows that 11, maybe 12, countries are considering a JANS this year. However, some are more advanced in their thinking than others. The Core Team is in the process of checking about their interest in being one of the 'One JANS' countries.
